"Tina's jewelry gives new meaning to the word 'unique'. Unordinary, special and different in a simple way. Mostly, you just feel it."

Tina Steinberg is on the rise in the fashion and art scene with her unordinary jewelry creations. As a hobby, she began making jewelry in 2004. Within the first two years, she acquired a strong following of customers across the U.S. including celebrities such as Marcia Cross, Ming Na, Melissa Joan Hart, Jordin Sparks, Gwen Stefani, Holly Robinson-Peete, Tori Spelling, Bridget Wilson-Sampras, Amber Valletta, Melissa Rivers, and more.

Previously a psychotherapist and currently a mom of two, Tina channels her artistic energy into handcrafting organically-shaped silver charms and pendants with messages of peace, love, hope, growth, and courage. Many of her messages are self-authored, taken from poetry she has written since her early years as an introspective teen. When customers lay eyes on Tina's jewelry, you can see how these spiritually evocative messages touch them... it is a moment that almost can't be interrupted.

"Tina has a special way of connecting with others. Your jewelry is more than meets the eye - compelling in many ways. I look forward your creations."

Timeless pieces combined with special little twists make observers ask, "Where'd you get that? It's so simple, but different and interesting." Tina uses hand-antiqued silver, wood, leather, gemstones, symbolic, and vintage findings throughout her designs. Her pieces are mostly monochromatic making them easy to wear and fun for layering with other designs. "I'm a mom who never thought I'd wear mom's jewelry, until I met you. Yours is incredible! I talk about it to everyone I know...I just love it!"

Staying true to her belief that jewelry can be fashionable and spiritually uplifting, Tina has built a thriving business on her intuitively-inspired sense of what her customers feel personally connected to. Just give her an ounce of information about yourself and she will respond with an ultra-aesthetic piece of wearable art that you didn't know you needed. Tina travels for group appointments and jewelry co-design parties in Southern California. You can also meet her at the Old Town Farmer's Market in Temecula on Saturdays from 8:00 am -12:30 pm.
